

A USER-FRIENDLY DIGITAL FILE WITH INBOX FUNCTION

CENIT ECLISO provides a functional electronic file for the Enterprise Content Management platform IBM Enterprise Content Management (ECM). With its assistance cases and files can easily be searched for and efficiently be processed. Manifold requirements of document handling are harmonized with one another in a single integrated process. Therefore ECLISO is of particular use for employees with highly individualized tasks as well as for workers, who have to deal with industrialized processes and high throughput.

► PRODUCT FEATURES

- Rich Client, i.e. an adjustable desktop application on the base of IBM ECM
- Based upon Eclipse Rich Client Platform (RCP) and service-oriented 3-tier architecture
- High scalability – ECLISO can be customized to user specific demands without difficulty
- An intuitive handling of cases and files is supported by the easy-to-use standard functions
- Capacious standard functions, which control the interaction between the processing of cases and files
- All required document management functions
- Can be combined with a thin client for information access and might be integrated with further applications and technologies, e.g. portal applications or ERP systems
- Inbox function is included
- Standard functions for e-mail management

► CUSTOMER BENEFIT

- Due to the modular concept, ECLISO allows for a standardized and easy access to workflow and content management systems
- In spite of its many standard functions ECLISO remains highly flexible and extendable
- It causes cost reduction because of its seamless integration into the existing infrastructure and operations
- It enables a sustainable reduction of processing times for cases and files
- It enhances a company's flexibility, because several kinds of applications are combined in one single client
- It contributes to an easier realization even of complex compliance measures
- The focus on user-friendliness facilitates the use of the underlying ECM platform
